This year, McLane's debate squad traveled throughout the valley to compete with 26 other high schools in debate, oratory, impromptu, and dramatic speaking. Although the majority of the activities are in tournaments, many local service clubs request that squad members speak before their members. McLane again consistently placed as one of the very top speech squads in the San Joaquin Valley.

The McLane squad members are qualified, by their efforts, to join the National Forensics League, an honorary public speaking organization. McLane's Forensics League chapter holds an annual picnic at the end of the school year for all those who have shared the trips and the year's work.
