

Library

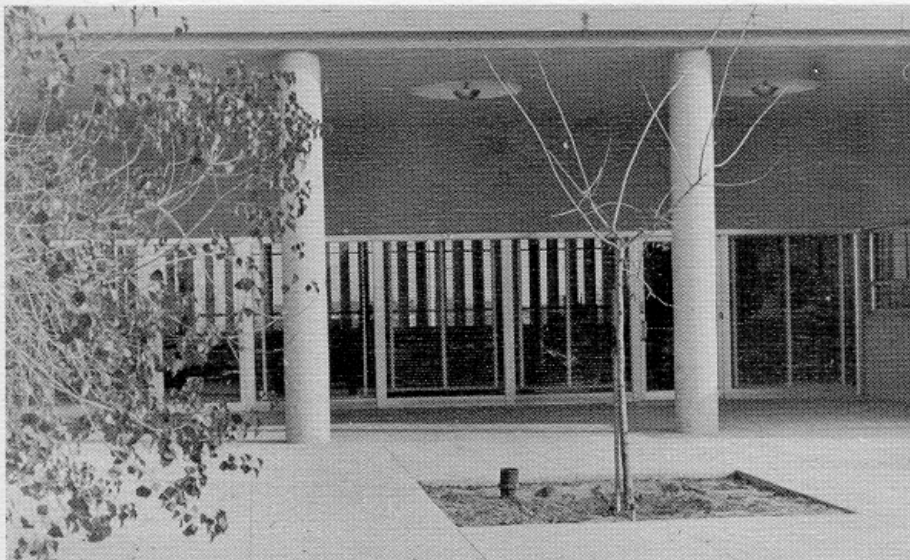

Overcrowded conditions in the library during final's week force many students to work in congested little groups.

Are you sure it's alright to tear pages out of the Encyclopedia?

It has been said that books are the key to knowledge. Because today's society stresses the well-read individual, McLane has added approximately three hundred new and challenging books.

With the help of our new librarian, Mrs. Griffiths, the library has been rearranged into a serviceable layout. The nonfiction section has been reserved for those who need such material. A quiet and pleasant atmosphere surrounds the library, creating a perfect study room. We should be proud of McLane's accommodating library!

The results of a painstaking landscape project.

But Mabel, I feel so silly standing here like a pole.